E. H. Ross, 708 Olive Street, suffered a painful injury to his right hand recently when he was inspecting his attic fan. His hand came into contact with the blades of the fan, which severed the cartilage and muscle of one finger.

Murray's 1947 edition of the Calloway County Horse Show came to a close Saturday night and show officials termed it one of the best in the history of the yearly feature.

White tapers in candelabra outlining the choid rail and steps of the First Methodist Church, Wickliffe, lighted the wedding of Miss Angie Mary McNutt, daughter of J. R. McNutt of Murray, and Maurice Jeffrey Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Howard of Farmington, Ky., at six o'clock in the evening of August 9.

Murray merchants will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the Calloway County Court House to organize a retail merchants association.

Whitnell Morris, resident of the Dexter community, was injured Saturday night when the automobile he was driving left the road near Dexter.

Try To Find Some Relative Of Person Government Owes

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — A fellow here has been trying in vain for more than a year to find direct descendants of one of the finest artists ever to hit these shores.
The government owes them nearly $12,000.

The artist was Emanuel Ninger.
A stocky, blue-eyed man with a blond beard and a profile somewhat like that of Gen.
U. S. Grant, Ninger came here from Germany in 1900 when he was 35. The ship's manifest listed him, peculiarly, as "a sign painter."

He did seek work briefly as a sign painter in Hoboken, N.J., but the employer said he wasn't good enough at it. Ninger didn't need the job, however, because meantime he had put his tremendous talent to work. He and his wife Adelaide eventually bought a farm in Flagtown, N.J., living comfortably with three daughters and a son in a house which had one room set aside for Ninger and his art.

Working only with pen, ink, and brushes he created masterpieces that later were praised by art critics. His drawing was impressionistic, yet frankly imitative. He imitated money—$20, $50, and $100 bills.

The Secret Service considers his hand drawings the most artistic counterfeits of U.S. notes in currency history. Some of his notes occupy a place of honor framed to set off their beauty. in the U. S. Secret Service files room in Washington. At his trial, art critics said his work was fine impressionistic art—he made you see things that weren't there.

Lacking a steel graver to work with he couldn't put in certain fine details with his cruder instruments. He got around this by simply leaving them out and suggesting their presence so artfully that even if you looked closely you got the impression they were there.

He even left out the tiny words, which were carried on bills at the time, saying they were made "at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing." When the Secret Service later asked him why he replied with pride and dignity: "Because dey didn't made dem."

Enjoyed Success
It has been estimated that Ninger successfully passed, between $300 and $500 of this stuff a month for about 17 years (including three years before he came to this country). When the Secret Service finally caught him, they found only $975 in real money in the house.

Finks around Flagtown figure Ninger must have had a lot of gold hidden around the place, and one man who later bought the farm went mad looking for it, according to Murray Teigh Bloom, who has engrained Ninger in a book just published by Scraper's, entitled "Money of Their Own."

The book deals with the lives and easy times of 10 master international counterfeiters. Last year when Bloom was working on the Ninger chapter, he discovered that $350 of the real money seized in Ninger's house never was returned to him or his family. Ninger got out of jail in 1900. There is no record of date or place of death.

Bloom tried by local phone, by notices in the New York Times, by letters throughout the country to locate descendants of Emmanuel and Adelaide. None stepped forth to claim the money.
Bloom says he still would like to find one to tell him what he has coming.

At the 6 per cent compound interest paid on claims against the government, the $350 taken in 1896 when Ninger was arrested now is $11,945.74 — and growing fast.

Veteran Wants Shot At Title

CLEVELAND (AP) — Virgil Ak-ins, veteran of St. Louis welterweight, clamored today for a shot at the winner of the Ray Robinson - Carmen Basilio title bout, figuring he earned it by his upset eight-round technical knockout over Garnett (Sugar) Hart Friday night.

Referee Lou Parker stopped the fight after 49 seconds of the eighth round, but many ringers in the public auditorium felt he should have made the gesture mid-way in the seventh when a looping right hook draped Hart for an eight-count, after which he again and aborded a merciless pasting.

East Murray News

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Parker have cause to be very joyous since their son, Major R. Dale Parker and Mrs. Parker who just ended a tour of duty with the armed forces service in Japon are home and well. Their daughter, Mary, is also visiting with them. Raymond S. Snell, Mary's husband, will join them late this week making their family reunion complete.

Major Parker and his father, R. R. Parker, attended the ball game in St. Louis Sunday. The Parkers lived in St. Louis when Dale was in grade school. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Parker, Mr. and Mrs. William Joe Parker, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Calhoun the family of Billie Joe Parker, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Parker were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad C. Jones Thursday evening, August 1. Joe and Romie are the brothers of Mrs. Jones. So it became a reunion to them as there are only these three of them.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jones have had vacation visits with Mr. and Mrs. Stranberg who have returned from U.S. Army duty. They are to be stationed in California. Mrs. Stranberg is the daughter of Mrs. Jones. The Stranbergs have three children.
One of the grandchildren, Carolyn, is still visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Jones. The remainder of the family have returned to their new post.

Rev. and Mrs. J. Bill Jones and family vacationed with his spouse a few days with Mrs.
Jones, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Jones when Mr. Calhoun's stepfather was ill.

Larry Dale, Mr. and Mrs. Calhoun's son, is in Bible school.
Mrs. Geneva Settle and husband of California are visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Jones. Mrs.
Settle is the daughter of Mrs.
Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Parker visited with Mrs. Parker's mother, Mrs. Hattie Steele, while Mr.
Parker's brother, Flourney Parker, was in the hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Parker also visited Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Roberts at that time.
Mrs. Richard Leman is now visiting relatives in the county.
Mrs. Lyman was Miss Maxine Parker before her marriage.

The friends of Mrs. Roy Schrabrough will be glad to know that she is able to be home

Kitchen Shower Is Held At Grill For Jennie Lou Jellison

The private dining room of the Murray Grill was the scene of a dessert kitchen shower given in honor of Miss Jennie Lou Jellison, bride-elect, by Mrs. Eli Alexander, Mrs. Robert Glenn Jeffrey, and Mrs. Fran Watrous on Thursday.

The hostesses presented Miss Jellison and her mother, Mrs. C. G. Jellison, with a variety of colorful kitchen gadgets. After the many useful gifts were opened, a delightful dessert was served at the beautifully decorated dining table which all the guests were seated around.

A white-pique scoop neck yellow rose print, with full skirt and moss green velvet ribbons waist insets, a "Mr. Mort" original, is what the honoree chose to wear for the occasion.

Mrs. Woodfin Hutson, aunt of the bride-elect, and other close friends of the family were included in the guest list.

Miss Glenda Brown Honored At Shower At Fellowship Hall

Miss Glenda Brown, bride-elect of Robert Hill, was honored with a miscellaneous shower Friday, July 19, at seven-thirty o'clock in the evening in the South Pleasant Grove Methodist Church by Mrs. Bee Guthrie and Mrs. James Buchanan.

The honoree chose to wear a sheath dress for Bates cotton in brown and white stripes with accessories of natural straw. She was presented a corgie of white gladioli.

Refreshments of cake, nuts, mints, and punch were served following the opening of the gifts.

Approximately ninety persons were present or sent gifts.

Big Three Give Adenauer Big Boost

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The Big Three Western Allies have given Chancellor Konrad Adenauer a big boost in his campaign for the West German parliamentary election.

That seems likely to be the most important result of the declaration on German unity which the United States, Britain, France and West Germany issued Monday.

The statement also gave Adenauer personally further assurance that West Germany's interests will not be sacrificed in the attempt to reach a disarmament agreement with Soviet Russia.

It would be unfair, perhaps, to call the declaration a campaign document. Nevertheless, it makes a pretty good one.

Calls For Election

The declaration called on Soviet Russia to agree to a free all-German election to unify the country.

It reaffirmed the right of a united Germany to continue membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization which West Germany now holds.

It further ruled out as impossible the Russian demand that West Germany negotiate a unification agreement with Communist East Germany.

One significant feature of the declaration was that it was issued in West Berlin instead of Bonn, the West German capital.

This emphasized the fact that Berlin is Germany's real capital.

B & K To Visit East

The decision to issue the unification declaration at this time undoubtedly was made partly because Russian Communist Leader Nikita S. Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin are to visit East Germany in August.

Khrushchev and Bulganin are sure to hit the unification issue hard in their speeches during this visit. They may be expected to call again for direct negotiations between the two German governments, and to repeat that West Germany's membership in NATO is a bar to a unification agreement.

The four-power declaration seems to pull the rug out from under this Soviet propaganda line.

'EXCEPTIONALLY MERITORIOUS'

Moscow Cats Jump To U.S. Rock 'N Roll

MOSCOW — Hot British musicians playing "cool" American jazz hepped up Moscow's youth festival last night and set Muscovite youngsters rocking to the "decadent" Western rhythms denounced by their Communist elders.

Some 1,000 Russians crowded into the Cinema Actors House for the British-sponsored jam session.

They applauded loudly when Negro songstress Bernice Reardon crooned the "St. Louis Blues," "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," and the once-banned Russian folk song "Darkeyes."

And they stomped and cheered when she belted out "Rock Baby Rock," backed by two blaring bands and a Soho quartet.

A few mutterings of disapproval were lost in the crash of applause.

Fraternization between Russians and festival visitors was even closer and livelier in Red Square, where giggling girls had their handkerchiefs and gave a kiss to boys who found them.

Many members of the American contingent, less delegation-minded than visitors from other countries, skipped scheduled festival activities to follow their own whims.

Barbara Perry, a dancer from Chicago, went to see the famed Bolshoi Ballet perform Swan Lake. She thought the Russian dancers were "just fabulous."

"I'm very favorably impressed even though I don't agree with even though I don't agree with the Soviet dancers on style," she said.

The American ballet student said Russians were embarrassing her by comparing her to the Soviet Union's great ballerina Galina Ulanova, even though they had not seen her dance.

Political discussions were frequent but unheated. One group of Americans and Russians informally debated the subject of democracy versus communism.

"Nobody tried to convert anybody," an American said. "We just exchanged ideas like Eisenhower and Zhukov did in their long conversation at the end of the war."

Summer Handling Of Lambs Includes Weaning; Treating

Any lambs which were not ready for market by July 15 should have been weaned, treated for internal parasites and turned on the cleanest pasture available, says R. C. Miller, Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service sheep specialist.

Such lambs will make only slow gains in the hot part of the summer, he says, but can be finished at small costs up pasture in the fall after nights cool off, provided the lambs are kept healthy.

Running lambs in cornfields after the corn reaches the tasseling stage — has become more popular in Kentucky. Lambs apparently do no damage to growing corn, though occasionally they pull a lower leaf or two; they eat grasses and weeds in cornfields. Pasturing them thus is also a good way to break up the parasite cycle; the cornfield is free of parasites the sheep might pick up, since the field has been plowed and has not had sheep on it for months. Keep a phenothiazine-salt mixture available to these lambs, though.
